SAVE OUR NHS: The striking doctors at Princess Alexandra Hospital, where additional clinical teams were organised to support emergency services

MEDICS STRIKE AT HOSPITAL IN CONTRACT ROW

Hundreds of appointments cancelled during walkout

Gemma Gardner
gemma.gardner@
hertsexnews.co.uk

STRIKING junior doctors staged a protest outside Princess Alexandra Hospital (PAH) during this week's national two-day walkout.

The strike, which was held between 8am and 5pm on Tuesday and Wednesday, was the latest in the dispute between the British Medical Association (BMA) and the Government over the imposition of a new contract.

It was the first time those taking part in the ongoing industrial action had refused to provide emergency cover.

Earlier this week the Princess Alexandra Hospital Trust said it had drawn up plans to limit the impact of the strike wherever possible but said the focus would be on maintaining emergency services.

Yesterday (Wednesday) the hospital revealed it had to cancel 329 appointments and postpone two operations as a result of the strike. However, a total of 2,266 appointments went ahead as scheduled.

Chief medical officer Dr Andy Morris said: "We have worked hard to manage staffing rotas during the strike and even though there is very high demand in the hospital at the moment we are committed to minimising disruption for patients."

Treatment

"We have organised additional senior clinical teams to support our emergency services. We are also urging everyone to consider the most appropriate treatment choice for their condition."

People with outpatient appointments were advised to attend as normal unless they have been contacted by the hospital and told otherwise. However, they were warned about the possibility of delays and advised to take refreshments with them.

The dispute between the BMA and Government centres around working hours and pay, particularly on Saturdays. Health Secretary Jeremy Hunt insists the new contract offers junior doctors higher pay on Saturdays than almost any other public-sector worker.

Junior doctor Zohra Qureshi, who lives in Bishop's Stortford and whose son was born at PAH, said: "The dispute over the new contract has been going on for years but has escalated in recent months. Last month the Department of Health released a model contract and also an equality impact assessment. The contract was worse than expected. "At the moment, many hospital rotas are left with gaps. Doctors work extra unpaid hours regularly and the situation can sometimes be so bad that there are only 50 per cent of the required doctors to cover a night shift in some departments."

"This is already a dangerous situation and is set to get worse. The day-to-day cover on the wards is sometimes worse than it has been on strike days."

Worried

She added: "I am genuinely worried about the impact of the new contract on the future of the NHS. The Government has not listened to our concerns; 54,000 highly qualified professionals can't all be wrong."

"I accept that the strikes are causing inconvenience to patients and this is really not what anyone wanted, but if the contract goes ahead NHS services will get worse and the overall effect is worse care for everyone."

Two arrests after pair hit by van

TWO people have been arrested after two pedestrians were struck by a van in Harlow.

The victims, one aged 24 and the other 19, were walking in the Potters Field area of town shortly before 1.45pm last Thursday when they were struck by the van which had mounted the kerb at the junction of Red Lion Lane.

The driver of the vehicle failed to stop after hitting the pair.

The 19-year-old man, who lives in Harlow, suffered internal injuries and was taken to hospital by air ambulance. He is said to be in a stable condition.

The 24-year-old, also from Harlow, escaped with minor injuries.

Inquiries

The following day detectives said a 22-year-old man, who has not been named, had been arrested on suspicion of attempted murder.

He was later released on police bail until June 29 while inquiries continue.

On Tuesday police arrested a second man in connection with the incident.

Cormac Roberts, 21, a labourer of Radburn Close, Harlow, was due to appear at Chelmsford Magistrates' Court yesterday (Wednesday) charged with making threats to kill and possession of an offensive weapon.

■ Anyone who witnessed the incident or who has information relating to the police investigation should call Harlow CID on the non-emergency 101 number or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Man charged over assault

A MAN has been charged with causing grievous bodily harm during an assault in Market Square, Harlow.

Sean Stuart, 30, from Tamar Way, London N17, was arrested on Friday and released on bail to appear at Chelmsford Magistrates' Court on Monday, May 23.

The 20-year-old victim of the assault, which took place on September 4 last year, suffered serious facial injuries.

Town store jobs at risk in BHS crisis

High street chain goes into administration

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

STAFF working in the BHS store in Harlow are facing an uncertain future after the high street chain was placed in administration after talks to secure a rescue package collapsed.

Administrators from Duff & Phelps have been called in after negotiations with Sports Direct and other potential funders failed on Sunday night.

This week Harlow MP Robert Halfon said that his heart went out to the workers who face "difficult and uncertain futures".

"I have contacted the Government and BHS to ask how their employment rights and pensions are to be protected," he told the Star.

"I have asked and hope to hold a meeting with Harlow BHS management. I will be pleased to meet or contact any BHS worker who has individual concerns."

In a letter written to the administrators, he said: "Following the very disappointing news today about BHS, I was hoping that you could re-assure me about the efforts that will be made by your organisation to try and secure the future of the company and the jobs of so many people, a number of which are in my Harlow constituency."

BHS, which is located within the Harvey Centre, has been a fixture of town for many years but has seen its footfall decrease in recent months.

On Tuesday, the Government's business minister Anna Soubry said there were no plans to make immediate redundancies at BHS.

She told MPs: "The clear message is that BHS is still open for business as usual. There are no plans for immediate redundancies or store closures."

The decision by BHS to enter administration puts 164 shops and almost 11,000 jobs at risk. The administrators will now try to sell all or part of the business.

Police force to feature in new fly-on-wall show

THE work of Essex Police officers and staff is to be featured in a new TV documentary series on Sky One.

Camera crews have been filming around the county since February for the programme, called The Force, which is due to be broadcast later this year.

It will feature a range of different emergency calls and situations which officers face on a daily basis.

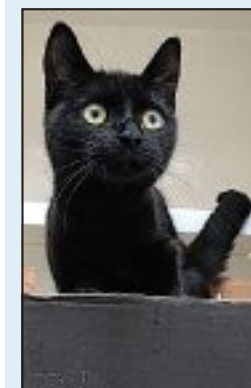

The constabulary previously featured in three series of the Channel Five programme Police Interceptors. Filming for that ended in 2010.

Gareth Nicholson, head of communications at Essex Police, said: "We got a call from the production company and they thought that Essex Police had a particular set of challenges which they found interesting."

"It is about how we are coping with an increased demand for policing, how we cope with the size of the county, having international airports and both rural and urban areas."

He added: "We get an awful lot of requests for documentaries – a couple every week – so we will only say yes if we think it is something that will help the public understand how we spend our time."

Your donations help us save the lives of cats like Brenda

THERE has been an awful lot of press regarding the legal requirement of microchipping dogs which we see as a positive step forward. But is not only dogs that you should get microchipped.

This is Brenda, who came into our care more than eight months ago with an underarm collar injury.

This type of injury is very common and unfortunately we see examples on a weekly basis. We think in Brenda's case she had slipped her arm through the collar and become stuck, leaving her with a hole under her armpit about the size of a 10p pence piece.

We would never advise anyone to put a collar on a cat. A microchip will not only allow lost pets to find their way home but also prevent the horrific injuries collars can cause.

Over the past eight months we have tried everything we could to heal the wound but as is common with collar injuries it would simply not heal.

After Brenda's ordeal it was decided that the only way to save her was to operate. This involved transplanting a flap of skin from her side with its own blood supply to under her front arm. It was an incredibly delicate procedure; Brenda was on the operating table for just over three hours and was left with more than 300 stitches.

The cost of this procedure is usually around £1,200 but due to the unbelievable generosity of the Pauline Sell veterinary practice in Hatfield Heath, Brenda was operated on last week. Pauline kindly donated her time and use of her operating facilities which meant we were able to fund her treatment as a branch.

It is only through continuing donations that we are able to save little cats like Brenda. This can be done very simply by texting SVBT15 £2/£5 to 7000.

Buggy walk raises £15k for hospital's baby unit

More than 140 mums trek five miles for neonatal team at PAH

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A BUGGY walk organised by a mother whose baby was born seven weeks prematurely has raised a staggering £15,000 for the neonatal intensive care unit at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital.

More than 140 mums joined Lauren Alston for the five-mile sponsored walk at the Lea Valley White Water Centre on Sunday.

"I'm completely ecstatic and money keeps dripping in," said mum-of-two Lauren, whose daughter Isabelle was cared for in the NICU after she was born by emergency caesarean section at PAH last year.

"The response has been amazing. The last few days I've been thanking people and everyone has been saying it was a great day. It went better than I expected."

Care

She organised the walk as a way of thanking staff in the unit for the care and support they gave her and her daughter.

Jamie Pring, fundraising co-ordinator for the Princess Alexandra Hospital's Charity, said the money would make a huge difference to the neonatal unit.

"It's gone beyond everything we expected," he said. "When I first met Lauren

"They've done such a fantastic job. There are so many things the unit are going to be able to do with the money."

Mr Pring said the money would go towards the renovation of the hospital's breast feeding room as well as a baby transport kit which can cost £70,000.

MP votes with Government to defeat Syria child refugee proposal

HARLOW MP Robert Halfon voted with the Government to defeat a move to allow 3,000 unaccompanied child refugees entry to the UK from Europe.

Labour peer Lord Dubs, who put forward the proposal, compared it to the Kindertransport scheme which enabled children to escape Nazi-controlled areas of Europe before the Second World War.

However, the motion was defeated by 294 votes to 276 on Monday after ministers said it would only encourage more refugees to head for Europe, preferring instead to admit youngsters from camps in and around Syria.

Mr Halfon said he passionately believed the UK had a duty to help people suffering as a result of civil war in Syria and was proud of the Government's humanitarian effort to help refugees.

This included support for a resettlement scheme focused on the children at risk in the Middle East and north Africa, the allocation of millions of pounds to help refugees and the launch of the Syrian Vulnerable Person Resettlement Scheme to resettle 20,000 people over the course of the current Parliament.

He said help should be concentrated on children in refugee camps around Syria as they were suffering the most could not travel.

"I am proud of the Government's humanitarian effort to help Syrian refugees and I think this is the right way forward," he added.

Change is a health hazard

SIR, I have been informed this week the nappy/incontinence pad waste collection service will now be fortnightly instead of weekly and that I would be given four bags to use per fortnight instead of two per week so this would not affect my fortnightly non-recycle waste space.

But where do they think I am going to store these full extra bags for another week, especially during the warm summer months?

I am shocked this cost-cutting decision was taken by councillors, especially as the Health and Safety Executive considers this an offensive/hygiene waste which has the potential to harm the health of those exposed to it. So it is hardly fair on my neighbours.

I would have thought this type of waste requires a weekly collection in order to contain the health hazards. Allowing it to pile up for an extra week will only create further issues.

I now have no choice but to put this extra waste in my non-recycling bin so as to contain the odour and limit the nuisance of flies/maggots in the hotter months. This will then seriously impact our already overflowing, non-recycled waste which is also only collected fortnightly.

I would be interested to learn why this was approved.

No space for pedestrians

SIR, I was surprised on coming into Harlow at about 4pm last Thursday to see this lorry with its stabilisation feet extended and its lifting cradle in use, completely straddling a footpath and, indeed, the entire verge.

It seemed well coned off and there was a helpful sign pointing into the busy and fast oncoming traffic as the alternative route

■ This week's photo was taken in the gardens of the Museum of Harlow by Jules Gulrajani, of Glebelands, who writes: "We took our nieces to the museum and in between showers the April sun created magical light in the museum gardens. This is the spectacular magnolia tree, beginning to bloom in the walled garden."

■ If you have a photo you have taken in or around Harlow which you would like to see featured in the Star, email a high resolution copy in JPEG format, along with a brief description of where and when it was taken, to star@hertsessexnews.co.uk. Please remember to include your name and address.

for pedestrians.

Looking closer at the picture there is an old lady on a mobility scooter. I wonder how this delayed her; what choices she had and how it impacted on her journey time? Did she bunny hop the scooter up and down the kerb?

I realise it's perfectly acceptable to choke residential areas with inconsiderate parking but haven't really seen the same lack of thought and provision on wider footpath areas. Do you not need some permission to undertake this work?

Surely a more appropriate vehicle could have been used?

Complaints about PAH

SIR, After reading letters from people praising Princess Alexandra Hospital, I am writing to express views on how my elderly father has been treated.

In September 2014 he was admitted to a ward. While there he was not helped to the toilet and told to wet himself while in bed as it would be cleaned up later. As a result he got a urinary infection.

When he tried to go to the toilet on his own as he didn't want to do that again he had a fall.

In December 2014 he was admitted to a different ward. It was in a terrible mess and again we had cause to complain. In this ward there were rusty cages, dirty linen, equipment left in the corridor blocking the way and patient notes let out in the corridor so anyone could just pick them up. I also was witness to a patient's blood spilled on the floor but not cleaned up for hours.

The next time my father was admitted to the hospital he had another fall, leaving his arm swollen and bruised.

On his last stay on the stroke ward he called for help to go to the toilet but no one came and he soiled himself.

We wrote to the hospital after making another verbal complaint but after 11 days I was told I couldn't make one without my father's consent. This was done but it took 80, yes 80, days to get a reply when the standard that is set is 25 days.

Just last year the chief executive said PAH was bucking the trend as complaints were going down. I wonder if this is because verbal complaints like the ones we made are just ignored.

Just recently my father was sent home from A&E without the right equipment which he had to source himself having been told what he needed by a carer.

I feel an investigation needs to be carried out by the Care Quality Commission into the hospital's practises. I also think the chief executive or the head of nursing, whom I also spoke to, should offer their resignations and be replaced with people who are capable of putting meaningful changes into place.

Was this the best deal?

SIR, It is with complete disbelief that I read of the £4m injection to upgrade 13 flats and a number of shops and garages at Prentice Place (Star, April 7). That equates to around £150,000 per unit just for improvements.

After a 10-year delay, are we really meant to accept that this is the best deal Harlow Council can come up with?

HDC deserves recognition

SIR, I read with appreciation the front page of last week's Star in which a local councillor says that improvement to the town centre at Gate House are to be carried out.

The article mentions some previous organisations that have used these premises, namely HSBC and the Star but sadly there is no mention of Harlow Development Corporation whose head offices were at Gate House.

I joined them in the early 1970s and our office was in the link over the road. Gate House was occupied by Ben Hyde Harvey and all his senior management team, together with architects, engineers and planners.

I believe it is sad that the many local men and women and all the associated organisations that gave many years to the building of the town we have today under the banner of the HDC warrant no recognition or mention.

Town needs more stores

SIR, Councillor Tony Duncan said he would like the Market Square rebuilt and lots of cafes moving in to give the town a fresh start.

Does he not think the town has enough cafes/eating places already and it could never resemble Covent Garden?

What the town needs is some decent shops, i.e. department stores, and a reliable bus service to get people to the town centre in the first place.

Helping them to be happy

SIR, Every parent is ambitious for their child's future but the reality for many parents of children and young people with autism is they are fighting to make the ordinary possible.

This is where Ambitious About Autism comes in. I have supported and worked closely with the charity for over 10 years and I, like many others, have personal connections to autism.

When you ask a young person with autism what they want for the future, their answer is simple. They want to become independent, have a job and make a contribution to their communities. They want to be happy and live full and rewarding lives.

Young people with autism have lots to offer employers and it is only right that they are afforded the same opportunities as other young people. However, only one in six people with autism are in paid and full-time work. I believe that with the right support and opportunities, they can achieve incredible things.

That's why I'm supporting Ambitious About Autism's campaign, Employ Autism, during World Autism Awareness Month. The charity wants to ensure young people with autism get the right education, advice and work experience opportunities to prepare them for the world of work and ensure employers have the understanding and will to support this transition.

So please, help young people with autism get the same training and work opportunities as other young people of the same age so they can enjoy a productive and inclusive life.

Charity's goal to find more space for donations of old football kits

Unwanted sports shirts are distributed to underprivileged children around the world

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

A CHARITY which collects and distributes football kits to underprivileged children across the world is urgently appealing for extra storage space in Harlow after a surge in donations of shirts and sports items.

KitAid, which is based across the county border in are based in Hertfordshire and is supported by former England manager Graham Taylor, has sent more than 325,000 items to soccer-mad children in Africa, Asia and South America since it was founded in 1998.

But recently the charity has been targeted by thieves who have broken into its storage container. "Fortunately the container was empty and the criminals efforts were in vain, but they have caused damage and this will also mean that we incur costs to move the container," said a spokesman. "It's very frustrating but we will not let them win."

The charity now needs to find a more secure location and is appealing to companies in Harlow for help.

"We use a Harlow-based courier company to collect kit from all over the country and we are ideally hoping to locate storage in the same area," said KitAid founder Derrick Williams.

"We really hope we can find a storage solution so we can send out even more kits to benefit children around the globe."

KitAid is hoping to find a secure warehouse which has access for deliveries on weekdays. Alternatively, a secure location is sought where a container can be stored with access by couriers.

"It would be devastating to have to turn down kit donations due to lack of storage," said Mr Williams. "The more kit we can store, the greater number of kits we can send out to communities and youngsters who would never be able to afford to buy their own football shirts."

Companies able to help KitAid should contact Mr Williams by email to via KitAid@affinitywater.co.uk.

Warning after 'alarming' increase in road deaths

ROAD safety chiefs in Essex are urging drivers to stay focused after it was revealed there had been an "alarming" rise in the number of deaths in accidents since the start of the year.

Twenty-two people have died on the county's highways since January and initial findings of accident investigators indicate two main reasons – head-on collisions and loss of control.

Detailed police investigations are ongoing but research by the Safer Essex Roads Partnership shows that in-car distractions such as mobile phones, car radios, heating controls and passengers are the main contributory factors in drivers losing concentration.

Nicola Foster, chairman of Safer Essex Roads Partnership, said: "There really is no excuse for using a mobile phone whilst driving. The best way not to be distracted by your phone is to simply turn it off and put it out of sight."

She added: "Driving a car is a task which requires a driver's full attention and you may also need to remind passengers about the risk."

Inspector Danny Parsons, of Essex Police's casualty reduction section, added: "We will continue to enforce and educate drivers who are caught using any hand-held device."

"We also urge passengers not to distract drivers whilst they are driving and to tell a driver to stop using a hand-held device if need be."

Thousands respond to fire consultation

AN Essex-wide consultation which will help shape the future of the county's fire service came to an end this week.

Thousands of people have responded to the 12-week exercise launched by Essex County Fire and Rescue Service after it put forward three options for change.

The results will now be analysed and presented to members of the Essex Fire Authority who will then decide what the service needs to do to meet future challenges in the face of ongoing funding cuts.

Acting Chief Fire Officer Adam Eckley said: "The number of responses we have had has been nothing short of fantastic. Now work will begin to analyse the results before they are presented to the Essex Fire Authority for a decision in June."

Scores of protesters turned out to demonstrate their opposition to proposed cuts to the county's fire service. The protest held in Chelmsford on Saturday was organised by Essex Fire Brigades Union.

Mains burst floods homes

A NUMBER of homes in the Berecroft area of Harlow were flooded and others left without water supplies after a main burst.

The burst, which happened in the early hours of last Thursday, affected about 20 properties.

Householders were offered support by Harlow Council, South Anglia Housing Association and Berecroft Residents' Association while work to repair the damaged main was carried out by a team from Affinity Water.

Ward councillor John Strachan, who was contacted by householders when water started flooding their homes, said: "They were upset, scared and angry, but the community came together and everyone worked hard to help."

A spokesman for Affinity Water said: "We are sorry for the inconvenience caused and thank our customers for their patience during this incident."

Five accused of GBH

FIVE men from Harlow accused of causing grievous bodily harm with intent are to stand trial at Crown Court.

All five – Daniel Lockett, 20, of Little Brays; Luke Martin, 18, of Joyners Field; Jordan Hinton, 18, of The Briars; Craig Quennell, 20, of Longbanks, and Luke Quennell, 18, of Longbanks – are accused of assaulting Lewis Criddle in Market Square on September 4 last year.

The accused were released on conditional bail when they appeared at Chelmsford Magistrates Court on Monday. The case was adjourned until May 23 for a plea and trial hearing at Chelmsford Crown Court on May 23.

Barry Hargreaves, prosecuting, said the 19-year-old victim of the assault was kicked repeatedly during the attack and suffered head and facial injuries.

Sad end for birds left to die in alley

FIVE budgies dumped "like rubbish" in an alleyway have had to be put down.

The birds were found huddled together in the alley off Rayfield, Epping, by a member of the public who took them home and contacted the RSPCA.

Animal collection officer Lucy Fackerell said: "They were in a really bad way. One had a severe growth on its eye and a nasty infection, another was paralysed and couldn't stand and the others were also suffering from sores and suspected French molt which causes their feathers to fall out."

The birds were taken to a vet but were in such a poor state the decision was taken to put them to sleep. "They were clearly suffering and had been neglected for some time before being dumped like rubbish," said Lucy.

It is the second incident of budgies being dumped in the alley this year. Four birds found there in February also had to be put down.

"We don't believe it's a coincidence," said Lucy. "We believe someone purposefully dumped them there on both occasions."

Flashes of fashion

A SERIES of high energy dance shows will be held in the Harvey Centre on Saturday to showcase some of the latest fashion collections on sale in the mall.

Shops taking part include Primark, Choice, Whitehouse, Tina Jayne, Blue Inc, Minx and Georgi. Each "fashion in a flash" dance show will visit the store they are representing and there will also be a main performance area.

The shows take place at half hourly intervals from 11.30am to 3.30pm. There will also be a chance to win vouchers for a mini shopping spree.

LONDON MARATHON: Scores of people from across the town Fundraisers pull in

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

SCORES of runners from across the Star patch pounded the streets of the capital on Sunday as they took part in the London Marathon.

Almost 40,000 runners lined up for the event, which was started by British astronaut Major Tim Peake on board the International Space Station.

Father and son Nigel and Samuel Taylor, of Burley Hill, Harlow, crossed the finishing line together in a time of six hours and 58 minutes, despite Samuel suffering an injury to his knee at four miles.

"It was certainly a day to remember," said Nigel, 47. "All was going well until mile four when Samuel's knee went. He was in severe pain to the point of hardly being able to walk."

"We saw six St John Ambulance stations, got him strapped up, iced up and he never gave up. He could have easily pulled out but refused. He's a real hero."

The pair raised more than £4,300 for Leukaemia CARE.

Craig Clarke, who ran the Paris Marathon last year, finished the London event in four hours, 36 minutes and 56 seconds.

He was running in memory of his 19-year-old cousin Darren, who died from a rare form of bone cancer. Craig raised £5,000 for the Teenage Cancer Trust by completing both marathons.

Harlow Running Club members Paul Schroder, 35, and Wendy Spring, from Copse Hill, raised £1,455 for VICTA which supports parents of blind children.

They both secured personal bests, with Paul finishing in three hours, 58 minutes and 45 seconds and Wendy in four hours, 21 minutes and 24 seconds.

Mick Maddams, 43, from Church Langley, completed the marathon for the second time – his first was in 2003 – in a little under four hours. He was running for CLIMB, a charity for children born with metabolic diseases, and raised more than £2,000.

Catherine Ridge finished in three hours, 58 minutes and 45 seconds. So far she has raised £1,117 for inclusive drama group Razed Roof.

She said: "I did it, I achieved my goal of running the London Marathon in under four hours and I enjoyed nearly every minute!"

Robyn Fryer ran for Great Ormond Street Hospital and raised £3,315. She finished in five hours, two minutes and 50 seconds, running in memory of her sister Megan, who passed away at just 13 days old.

Sean Williams, 41, of Joyners Field, finished in four hours and 42 minutes to raise £1,086 for the Williams Day Unit at Princess Alexandra Hospital.

Father and daughter Jeffery and Katie Lilley finished together in four hours and 38 minutes. They raised £1,000 for Princess Alexandra Hospital.

Chris Sayer crossed the finishing line in five hours and 20 minutes, a time which pleased him as he only took up running in January. He raised more than £1,000 for Children with Cancer UK.

Brothers Richard and Mark Bellworthy both completed their first marathon.

Teen hit on head in street robbery

A TEENAGER was attacked and robbed of cash and his mobile phone in Harlow town centre.

The 18-year-old victim, from North Weald, was walking along Velizy Avenue when he was approached from behind by three men and a woman.

He was struck on the back of the head and fell to the ground. The muggers then took his black iPhone 6 and a three-figure sum of cash before running away in the direction of the town centre.

The victim suffered pain to his head and a cut lip and was taken to hospital to be checked over.

The robbery took place between 1pm and 2pm on Thursday, April 14.

PC Rachel Anderson, of Harlow police, said: "This took place during the early afternoon in a busy street near Harlow College so I am appealing to anyone who was in the area at the time who saw what happened, or the suspects after the robbery, to get in touch."

The three males are described as black and it is thought they were wearing tracksuits. The woman has what the victim described as dark skin and is believed to have been wearing a Superdry coat. All were in their late 20s.

Anyone with information should contact PC Anderson on the non-emergency 101 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

COUNCIL ELECTIONS: Town's voters will go to the polls next Thursday

Battle at the ballot box

■ LABOUR

The Labour-controlled council has shown leadership, tenacity and decisive action on travellers, council housing and the Living Wage (the real living wage) amongst many other things.

On street lights, while others wanted to throw in the towel at the first sign of resistance, we have seen the job through and got the right results for Harlow and its people. We were transparent about how it could be funded, not just as a one-off but in a sustainable way. That is why Harlow is the only place in Essex where the street lights are on overnight across the town.

We have committed resources to secure the medium-term future of Pets' Corner and overseen the refurbishment of our fantastic Town Park.

In addition, there has been great joint working with other local councils and organisations (regardless of their political affiliation) fighting for the right infrastructure, jobs, housing and skills for Harlow people.

Despite the massive cuts from central government, a Labour-controlled council continues to punch above its weight. It manages its finances sustainably and prudently, making the right long-term decisions for the future of Harlow while keeping fairness, equality and equity at the heart of all it does.

More needs to be done to secure the investment that Harlow needs. On May 5 you will be able to vote for Labour candidates to continue to make a positive difference to the town we love.

■ CONSERVATIVE

The Conservatives have great aspirations for Harlow and we want to deliver them.

We want the town to reach its potential, a town of which residents can be proud with decent shops, good education, a variety of jobs and somewhere pleasant to relax.

Our MP Robert Halfon persuaded the Government to invest £8m in a University Technical College and encourage Anglia Ruskin University to open a campus to provide more opportunities for our young people.

Conservatives campaigned hard for Public Health England to relocate to Harlow, which is now bringing over £400m of investment and thousands of jobs in the coming years. As a result, Harlow will become the world's second biggest research centre for public health.

We want to work with developers to regenerate our town centre and VOTERS will get a chance to give their verdict on the performance of Harlow Council when they go to the polls next Thursday (May 5).

Eleven seats are up for grabs, one in each electoral ward across the town.

At present Labour hold the majority of seats on the council with 19, followed by the Conservatives with 12 and UKIP with two. Of the seats being contested next week, seven are held by Labour and four by the Conservatives.

Labour, Conservative and UKIP are fielding candidates in all 11 wards, with the Liberal Democrats contesting four of the seats. Voters in Harlow Common also have the choice of an independent candidate.

Polling stations open at 7am and will stay open until 10pm. The sealed ballot boxes will then be taken to the Latton Bush Centre where the votes will be counted. It is expected that the count will start at about 1.30am, with the first result declared at 2.15am.

This week we are giving all four parties and independent candidate Gary Roberts the opportunity to say why they believe Star readers should vote for them.

For a ward-by-ward list of candidates, visit our website at harlowstar.co.uk. We will also be providing live coverage on election night as the results are announced.

collaborate with other councils to bring Crossrail 2 to Harlow. We also want to improve road access to and from our town.

Look at how Labour has run our town in recent years. Residents of Harlow pay more in council tax than many other areas in Essex. Our council tax has been increased every year but services have declined, shrubs and bushes are left to overgrow our footpaths and the town centre is crumbling before our eyes.

The Labour council collected more tax last year than it needed and then refused to repay the excess.

It is fair for residents to expect more from their council and that's just what Harlow Conservatives are fighting for.

■ UKIP

At UKIP Harlow we want straight talking. No smokescreen, no mirrors, just straight talking.

It was a great headline – "50,000 extra new apprenticeships". What did our Tories offer? Engineering, technology, medicine? Well, the first three listed locally were at a pizza restaurant and another at a pub paying £3.30 an hour.

Straight talking: we will encourage and inspire youngsters, not insult them. When 99 per cent of private businesses in the UK are small sized, we will support our young entrepreneurs and bring down business rates in Harlow.

Straight talking: we insist on local homes for local people. Large developers deliberately target foreign investors for bigger profits. This prices locals out of the housing market and pushes up rental costs. We will not allow developers to dictate future housing. Council-owned properties will be regenerated and increased using local companies.

Straight talking: the proposed new M11 junction 7a is pushing ahead despite residents' concerns. UKIP created a website and a Facebook page in July last year to keep residents informed. We successfully challenged Essex Highways on its data information.

Straight talking: we need to replace our ageing hospital. We can have one double the size for less than 10 days contribution to the EU.

To listen to a different point of view can be challenging. To change sides and switch allegiance requires great strength of character. To take on the establishment fighting for the rights of everyone, for this we need heroes. UKIP heroes, talking straight.

■ LIBERAL DEMOCRAT

Harlow has a proud heritage and we need to preserve it while creating a town for the 21st century.

Liberal Democrat councillors will work to secure the future of our much-loved services including Harlow Playhouse, Pets' Corner and local parks. As well as this we will continue to improve the council's housing stock and build more council homes.

We will campaign for better safety and we will work with our Liberal Democrat colleagues at County Hall to get Essex County Council to reverse its appalling cuts to Harlow's budget for repairs to roads and pavements.

Mental health services are failing and we are dedicated to fighting against the harsh cuts to the mental health budget in the pursuit of giving it the same recognition as physical health.

We will work to revitalise the local economy and will find partners to develop innovative ways of revitalising the town centre and the neighbourhood shopping centres.

The young people of Harlow are the future and as such we will dedicate time and resources to make sure they have a safe and constructive environment to grow up in.

Liberal Democrats believe in local democracy and will find new opportunities to involve people in local decisions. We will challenge the Government to put its money where its mouth is and devolve more powers to local people.

Harlow Liberal Democrats are on your side, dedicated to listening and fulfilling residents' wishes. Vote Liberal Democrat for a change in Harlow in 2016.

■ INDEPENDENT

My name is Gary Roberts, I am 56 and have lived in the Harlow Common ward for nearly 33 years.

The reasons I am standing are to improve, promote and develop the ward, to regenerate Prentice Place which has been left to rot for nearly 20 years, to re-introduce locally provided council services into the ward, to improve local bus service provision in the ward, to re-introduce local neighbourhood policing to the ward (and indeed the town) and return a sense of community to the ward.

Like the Harlow Common ward,

Harlow town needs extensive regeneration. My focus would be on providing council housing for young adults. I would attempt to increase the pressure on the council to intensify its efforts to roll out the decent/modern homes programme and fight to stop the right to buy council housing.

Discretionary council services would be protected because they are important to the future of the town.

I set up, developed and ran the most independent and highly supported residents' group in the town. It still operates and regularly attracts 20 residents to its monthly meetings. Last year I was instrumental in getting the Potter Street playground renamed after local resident Kathy Smith.

I've said all along that I'll fight for one thing and one thing only: what is best for the Harlow Common ward and Harlow town. And if the residents want real change then voting for an independent voice would achieve that.

This is a local council election, it's about local people and local issues. It's about looking to take Harlow in general and Harlow Common in particular forward. I believe only an independent can bring real change and focus on very important local issues.

School turns pink for girl who beat cancer

Pupils and staff dress up to raise money for children's charity

William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

CHILDREN and staff of a Harlow primary school united in pink to support a six-year-old pupil who had cancer.

Everyone at Cooks Spinney Primary Academy, in Cooks Spinney, took part in the dress-up day, paying £1 to Children's Cancer and Leukaemia Group which supported Year 1 pupil Ava McCarthy.

Mum Kerry, 35, of Felmongers, Harlow, said: "They turned the school pink on what was the third year anniversary of her remission date. It was absolutely huge for us. The whole school got involved in this celebration."

Takings from the pink day raised £450 while Chris McCarthy, Ava's father, will add to the total with his takings from his London Marathon run.

Ava also has a younger brother Aston, who is four years old.

Kerry said: "Ava had stage three Wilms' Tumour [also known as nephroblastoma] which is a cancer of the kidneys. This is a favourable cancer but it is complicated because she has a rare cell make-up. Once doctors had worked out what was going on Children's Cancer and Leukaemia Group looked around Europe to find the best place for treatment for us.

"They found that to be Addenbrookes Hospital in Cambridge which fortunately for us is quite near. Her last treatment was just after her third birthday and she is now six."

Ava's cancer is now in remission but her parents and school are keeping a careful eye on her development. Wilms' Tumour has affected her bone density and physical development, although Kerry said she has recently had a growth spurt.

"The school were incredible with their support," she said. "As well as decorating the school they had a special assembly for Ava. Everyone was wearing pink clothes, pink football kits and some of the teachers were even wearing pink feather boas."

Headteacher Neil Stirrat said: "We could do this as an annual event. Ava's family approached us to do some kind of fundraiser to give something back for the charity and we thought we'd go one better and do a whole day dedicated to her."

"It was great to have everyone dressed up and getting into the spirit."

MANY HAPPY RETURNS: Left, youngsters at Buzzee Beez pre-school and, below, three of the residents at Manor Hatch Close supported housing

Young and old celebrate on Queen's 90th birthday

CELEBRATIONS to mark the Queen's 90th birthday bridged the generation gap in Harlow.

Staff and toddlers at Buzzee Beez pre-school, in Harberts Road, took part in several craft activities including decorating crowns and also enjoyed colouring in pictures of the union flag and Her Majesty.

They also made more than 250 cup cakes in the royal colours of red and blue.

Pre-school manager Gaynor Baker said: "We set up a table outside the pre-school and the children offered the cakes to their parents and brothers and sisters as well as taking one for themselves. Great fun was had by all."

Residents of Manor Hatch Close supported housing also marked the Queen's birthday by holding their own party.

■ The chairman of Essex County Council, Cllr Norman Hume, has written a letter to the Queen on behalf of the county to congratulate her on her birthday.

Cllr Hume also attended the lighting of the Essex beacon at Marsh Farm Country Park, one of more than 1,000 which formed a chain across the country.

Harlow Council Corporate Plan

This is what they said...

"About a third of Harlow homes are social rental.. we want more council housing."

Two years later they've just handed over 345 homes to private landlords. Harlow residents are priced out of the market and forced to pay higher rents.

Our commitment is to all residents and businesses in Harlow. You are now and always will be, top of our list in all aspects of local government.

We want your child to attend the school you choose, we want you to have local job opportunities. We want you to have an affordable home and we certainly expect you should see a doctor when you need to.

Catering student impresses in national young chef competition

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

CATERING student Samuel Staples hit on the recipe for success when he won a place in the national final of the Rotary Young Chef Competition.

Sixteen-year-old Samuel, who is studying at Harlow College, secured his place after wowing judges in the regional finals held at the college the previous week.

In the final held at Lincoln College earlier this month he was one of eight young chefs competing for the top prize from an original entry of more than 8,000 hopefuls.

The finalists were asked to plan, prepare, cook and then present a three-course meal for two people costing no more than £15.

Samuel's menu included a buffalo mozzarella short stack, hickory smoked mackerel and a deconstructed lemon meringue pie.

In a hotly contested battle, Samuel, from Waltham Abbey, finished just outside the top three places but was pleased with his performance and the experience he gained from taking part.

"I was excited to be involved in my first competition for Harlow College," he said. "I've learned a lot from dealing with the pressure and this will definitely help me in the kitchen in the future."

Stuart Smith, senior tutor in hospitality and catering at the college, said: "I put Sam forward for this competition because he's really passionate about his cooking and I knew he'd be able to handle the pressure."

"I'm very proud of him. To have got as far as the national final is an amazing accomplishment."

Geoff Kay, president of the Rotary Club of Harlow, added: "I was very impressed with Sam's talent and was delighted to see him get to the national final."

"Although he didn't win the top prize, he has been offered a work placement at the award-winning Tilbury Restaurant in Datchworth, so well done Sam."

MP urges students to register to vote during visit to college

LABOUR MP Gloria De Piero explained why it is important for young people to take part in the voting process when she visited Harlow College last Wednesday.

The Shadow Minister for Young People and Voter Registration said: "If young people want to start getting a fair deal then they must register to vote and then get out there and vote. Make your voice count when there is an election."

Ms De Piero explained that at the last General Election less than half of people under the age of 25 took part.

Harlow College principal Karen Spencer said: "Our students asked Gloria a range of searching questions and were forthright about how politicians could better represent their views."

"As a college we welcome a range of different people every year to raise

USE IT: Gloria De Piero with as group of students during her visit to the college

our students' political awareness and highlight the importance of them being involved in our democracy."

Journalism student Latoa Mupomba, 17, from Harlow, said: "After participating in this session I now feel encouraged to get myself registered. When it comes to voting, people are not always fully informed about the elections and, like myself, can be less inclined to vote."

Cast leave audiences spellbound

A CAST of 38 pupils from Stewards Academy in Harlow presented The Wizard of Oz to packed audiences.

During the course of five performances the cast entertained around 300 children, while family and friends took their seats around the yellow brick road for the three evening performances.

The magnificent band of teachers and friends of the school helped create a modern and enchanting spin on the production which had all audiences singing and clapping along.

Drama teacher and play director Keeley Thurley said: "The cast worked extremely hard and should be extremely proud of their achievements.

"Many of our students have the ability to pursue a career in the performing arts. They are an inspiration to us all."

New support centre for hospice services

Building will accommodate St Clare's expanding teams

Ken Morley

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A NEW building which will be used to accommodate clinical and support service teams has opened at St Clare Hospice.

The Taylor Centre, pictured right, was unveiled by Bob Weston, chairman of Weston Homes which funded more than half of the £820,000 building costs as well as providing the expertise of more than 50 building contractors. Many volunteered their time or worked on a not-for-profit basis.

The project was also funded by contributions from a number of anonymous donors.

The centre has been named after Mr Weston's business partner Richard Taylor, who passed away in 2013. Mr Taylor's wife, Angela, was also present at last Tuesday's official opening.

"St Clare is close to my own heart and to the many families who have been through their doors," said Mr Weston. "I know that Richard, and thousands of other people in need, have received care which is second to none at St Clare."

"It is a privilege to be able to support St Clare Hospice through this new building, going some way to repaying the kindness which they have shown to families in our local community across three decades."

Hospice chief executive Tanya Curry said: "The Taylor Centre will provide much-needed space to accommodate its expanding teams across both clinical and support service."

"Over the past 25 years we have cared for thousands of local people with life-limiting illnesses and their families, but with more people in need of our care and an ageing population we know demand for our services will continue to increase," she said.

"We have been responding to this growing need over the past five years with a rapid growth in our services and a three-fold increase in the number of people we care for."

She added: "Our heartfelt thanks go to Bob Weston and all those who have donated their time and expertise to making this building possible."

"It really will have a direct impact on the lives of the patients and families we care for, and help them through one of life's most difficult journeys."

Nursing assistant Zoe gets a starting role at Midnight Walk

A TEAM of nursing staff from St Clare Hospice will be doing their bit to raise funds by taking part in Midnight Walk when it returns to Harlow this summer.

And for one member of the team, the evening will be especially poignant.

Nursing assistant Zoe Almond, who has worked at the hospice for seven years, will join Sue, Sophie and Emma Barclay in starting the walk.

Zoe became close to the Barclay family when she helped care for their husband and father Steve, who was admitted to the inpatient unit a week before daughter Sophie's wedding. Despite his failing health, Steve was determined to walk with her down the aisle.

Zoe volunteered to give up her day off to care for Steve on the wedding day, accompanying him to the ceremony and giving his wife Sue the time she needed as the mother of the bride.

As a result the family was able to relax knowing that Steve was being looked after.

"All the way through, Steve and the family were saying it was a marvellous thing I was doing for them but it was really an honour for me," said Zoe. "And it just meant so much for Steve."

"All the way to the venue he was so focused. He wanted to be there to give Sophie away and that was all I wanted him to do. Most of all I just wanted Steve to be able to walk Sophie down the aisle because that was his dream, and he did. I feel extremely lucky to have been part of it."

She added: "I can't think of a nicer job to do. What other job can you do where you can share such precious moments? And they really are precious."

Sadly, Steve passed away on New Year's Day at the age of 63. His family have been invited to start the Midnight Walk in his memory.

The Midnight Walk takes place on Saturday, July 2, starting and finishing at The Water Gardens in Harlow town centre. Walkers can choose one of two distances, a 5km or 10km route.

Registration costs £20 for adults and £10 for children.

For more information or to sign up, visit stclarehospice.org.uk/event/midnight-walk-2016/, call (01279) 773756 or email jade.clarke@stclarehospice.org.uk.

Fundraisers to feel the heat as they conquer the coals

FUNDRAISERS are turning up the temperature as they seek volunteers willing to brave burning embers in aid of St Clare Hospice.

Following the success of its first sponsored firewalk in November, the hospice will be holding another at The Link community centre in Harlow on Sunday, May 15.

Participants will walk barefoot over red-hot embers to raise vital funds for the hospice.

One of those who took part last time was St

Clare chaplain Marion Williams, who said: "I'd never done anything like it before and was nervous, but I absolutely loved it."

"It was such a thrill to cross the coals and it gave me a real buzz. I encourage everyone to try it."

St Clare's challenge events fundraiser Jade Clarke added: "We were absolutely thrilled that our last firewalk raised nearly £15,000, more than double our original target. It was such a popular event we wanted to give more people the chance to take part in this challenge."

Registration costs £25 per person and participants are asked to raise a minimum of £150 in sponsorship. The event is open to all ages but under 18s must have signed parental permission to walk.

For more information call (01279) 773756 or email jade.clarke@stclarehospice.org.uk.

BETRAYAL

Victoria Hall Theatre, Bury Road, Old Harlow

Harlow Theatre Company presents this play written by Harold Pinter and inspired by his clandestine extramarital affair with television presenter Joan Bakewell. It integrates different permutations of betrayal relating to a seven-year affair involving a married couple, Emma and Robert, and Robert's close friend Jerry, who is also married to a woman named Judith.

Sweats and sniggers

WHAT causes women of a certain age to suffer cold sweats, hot flushes, hormones to rage like tsunamis and mood swings that make them as a predictable as the British weather?

No, it's not watching David Beckham train - it's the menopause.

But rather than complain about it, why not turn this change-of-life experience into a laugh-filled night at the theatre, complete with great songs, rewritten to perfectly capture the mood.

Former Casualty actress Rebecca Wheatley, Ex-EastEnders Cheryl Fergison and singing Nolan sister, Linda Nolan, are now starring in Menopause The Musical, which comes to Harlow Playhouse on Wednesday, May 4.

And the ladies believe this shared-experience fun night to be therapy for the soul.

"This show won't change your life or stop you taking your clothes off while watching telly," says Rebecca, smiling. "But it will guarantee you a great night out. And having a group of women in one hall all able to laugh at the changes women go through during menopause is a massively uplifting sensation.

"And here's the thing; the menopause stage isn't all bad. By the time they hit it, women know so much more about themselves. They have a developed confidence, knowledge and a lovely, healthy cynicism about life."

Rebecca acknowledges the menopause can create confusion.

"There was a time when women believed that with the arrival of the menopause their attractiveness departed and sex was a thing of the past. Not now!" She adds, laughing: "Years ago, I'd be having a blue rinse at this stage, not getting my hair dyed flame red.

"And who wants to surrender to middle age? Not me. I want to be a thoroughly disgraceful fifty-something."

Cheryl Fergison loves the very idea of Menopause The Musical.

"This show simply had to be made. It tells you it's okay to talk about the subject and I'm glad because I'm going through the menopause myself at the moment. You see, until you do you have no idea it's such a big thing."

Cheryl adds, grinning: "Suddenly, I think I'm sprouting a moustache. I could do Mouvement, (the movement which encourages men to grow moustaches.)

MID-LIFE
LADIES: Cheryl Fergison and Linda Nolan

"I've never been one for creams, but I'm looking at them now and thinking 'Is this going to make me firmer? Is this going to take my beard off?'"

Menopause The Musical, says Cheryl, features songs that connect with her state of mind.

"There are songs about getting older, about your body shape changing," She looks at her body and smiles; "Yes, it's getting rounder.

"And I love the fact this show reminds everyone that the menopause makes you emotional.

I'm now tearing up over nothing at all, and I'm not an emotional person."

Linda Nolan has toured with Menopause for three months in Ireland.

"The timing is great for this show," she maintains. "Women just seemed to be desperate for a great night out and enjoy 23 songs such as I Will Survive, but re-written with comedy lyrics.

"And it doesn't make light of the menopause, rather it shows you can tackle the likes of raging hot sweats with humour and honesty. I certainly don't mind anyone knowing I have to have fans in my dressing room, even when it's cold.

"But what's really great about this show is that women come up to you and say 'Thank you for making it okay to be over 50.'

Linda adds, laughing; "And if men do come to the show, they will understand why their wife, on occasion, has tried to kill them."

The show will be at Harlow Playhouse on Wednesday, May 4.

Tickets cost £21 and are available from www.playhouseharlow.com or by calling (01279) 431945.

Fab four take on Pinter love Pinter. He writes fantastic plays about fascinating people," said Dolleen Howlett. The Canadian, who now calls Harlow home, will direct Betrayal at Victoria Hall Theatre from Wednesday, May 4 to Saturday, May 7.

Harold Pinter has never written anything simpler, sadder or funnier than Betrayal. A small cast of four from Harlow Theatre Company is rising to the challenge.

Dolleen said the dark tale of an adulterous love triangle was an exciting project for her directorial debut.

"It is a real opportunity for me and the actors to explore his ideas," said the 41-year-old.

"The story is told in reverse. As the narrative flows backwards, the secrets and lies become more exposed."

The opening scene of the play is set in 1977, the year before it premiered and became one of the most popular in London.

Adulterous lovers Emma and Jerry are meeting two years after their affair has ended. During the nine scenes of the play, the audience is taken back two years at a time. The non-linear narrative follows all states of the affair and ends at the beginning – in the house of Emma and Robert, who are a married couple. Jerry is the best friend of Robert.

"It has been a challenge to recreate because it is a challenging play," added Dolleen.

"But we were looking for a challenge and we all love rising to it."

Harlow Theatre Company regular Alyssa Upton takes the role of Emma. Leo Appleton, playing Robert, is newer to the HTC fold while Kevin Smith, as Jerry, makes his debut with the company.

These three actors take 95 per cent of the dialogue while Paul Stephenson has a few lines playing a waiter. The length of the play means the cast have had a lot to learn, especially as they have only been rehearsing since the beginning of March.

Dolleen said the mixture of experience in the company and elsewhere has helped the cast to gel and bring fresh ideas to the stage.

"They have been brilliant," she said. "I have exactly what I was asking for. It has been a great collaboration with the actors going back and forth through their lines.

"They are so willing to listen. Sometimes in rehearsal I will stop the narrative and then ask to cast to continue in character. They have got on brilliantly."

A teacher by profession, Dolleen has been part of Harlow Theatre Company for 10 years taking roles on stage and behind the scenes.

She has long been an admirer of Pinter and jumped at the chance to take the reins for the first time with Betrayal.

"All of Pinter's plays are set in a darker version of society, there are never nice people involved," she laughed.

"They all loosely have their reasons for doing what they do. They don't think they are unlikeable but they know exactly what they are doing."

Harlow Playhouse is staging another Pinter play The Birthday Party around the same time and there is a mutual agreement that it is hard to pigeon hole his works.

Specifically about Betrayal, Dolleen said: "It has got a little bit of everything. It is sad, it is very dark but there is comedy in there too.

"It is not a laugh out loud play, but you can find the situations quite humorous rather than laughing at the jokes. It is hard to pin point it. I would not like to say it is just a dark comedy."

What will a 2016 Harlow audience make of it?

Dolleen continued: "I think anyone can connect with it. It is about three people who are scheming and plotting against each other. It is engrossing how they play mind games."

Critics and audiences have now been enjoying Betrayal for nearly 40 years. After release it won several major awards, including the Olivier Award for Best New Play and the New York Drama Critics' Circle Award.

Dolleen is looking forward to performing it for a new audience. "It is one of my favourite Pinter plays, if not my favourite," she said. "I have loved it since the first time I came across it."

■ Betrayal by Harold Pinter will be performed at the Victoria Hall Theatre from Wednesday, May 4 to Saturday, May 7. Tickets cost £13 or £10 for concessions. For bookings and more information visit www.victoriahalltheatre.co.uk.

Captain America: Civil War

ACTION: (12A) 147 minutes
Directors: The Russo brothers
Starring: Chris Evans, Robert Downey Jr, Scarlett Johansson, Anthony Mackie, Elizabeth Olsen, Paul Bettany, Sebastian Stan, Chadwick Boseman

Civil War? Or Avengers 2.5? Maybe Avengers Disassemble or just Captain America v Iron Man? The third Captain America film could have had a variety of subtitles to try to capture the scale and ambition of the Russo brothers' film and the fact that it involves most of the Avengers.

With the second Cap film, The Winter Soldier, the Russos showed an assured touch producing one of the best Marvel Studio movies so far, a tense thriller that showed S.H.I.E.L.D. had been infiltrated then torn apart by the nefarious Hydra organisation. This time the Russos are ripping apart the Avengers themselves; but at least they're doing it in style.

Civil War picks up on one of the enduring themes of superhero stories: Who watches the watchmen? Who is powerful enough to regulate the powerful? It's a concern that harks back to that oft-repeated expression from Spider-Man's origin story: With great power comes great responsibility. It is the same concern covered recently in Batman v Superman: Dawn Of Justice and it's what the Avengers have to face up to in Civil War.

After trashing large parts of New York and Washington in previous scraps, then razing a whole city in Sokovia in their last outing, the Avengers are being held to account for their actions and the consequences.

Civil War starts off with an Avengers mission in Lagos as they track down top Hydra agent Crossbones. But instead of just shutting his operation down, there's a terrible fallout from the mission leaving many innocent people dead.

This event is the catalyst for the Sokovia Accords, with countries around the world demanding the Avengers come under the control of the UN. This demand is presented to the Avengers by William Hurt's US Secretary of State, Thaddeus Ross, last seen as a scheming, blustering general in 2008's Incredible Hulk.

The superhero team are split about what to do, all with their own reasons for agreeing or disagreeing with regulation but events overtake their deliberations as a bomb attack on a UN meeting about the Accords in Vienna brings the Winter Soldier/Bucky Barnes (Sebastian Stan) back into the spotlight, suspected of being behind the attack which killed, among many others, the King of the mysterious African country of Wakanda.

The simmering tension between the superheroes breaks out into open conflict as Captain America tries to track down his old friend Bucky to clear his name while Tony Stark/Iron Man is determined to bring him to justice and get the Accords signed. As the superheroes line up on opposite sides, Black Panther, Ant-Man and Spider-Man also enter the fray but their spectacular smackdown at an airport is only a skirmish in a bigger, broader battle.

While last year's Avengers: Age Of Ultron was a bit of a mess narratively, Civil War is a lot more focused and streamlined. There's a lot going on and a lot of characters to handle in the Russos' film but they do it with aplomb and everything serves the story; there's a logical progression of character arcs and events which give the film real urgency and momentum.

There are a number of spectacular set-pieces throughout the film – kinetic fight scenes, dizzying chases and that brilliant Team Cap v Team Iron Man showdown at Leipzig Airport – but the film is character-driven rather than a CGI feast.

This is what makes this film (and the rest of the Marvel roster) work so well. It's all about the characters, their emotions and dilemmas, and the dynamics between them. Central to it all are two pivotal relationships; the one between Captain America and Iron Man and the one between Steve Rogers and Bucky Barnes, two men out of time. It's a strong emotional core which has us uncertain as to who we should be rooting for.

Despite the super powers and special effects, what makes the Russo brothers' film work so well is that it's grounded in recognisable issues and problems. It's a film about fantastical beings and amazing powers but it's anchored to the real world.

Civil War gives its weighty concerns – the consequences of superhero action – the right serious tone but leaves it with some great humour in which Spider-Man and Falcon give Iron-Man some competition for best one-liners.

What's more, it's emotionally involving, outrageously entertaining and constantly thrilling. Marvel and the Russos have done it again.

A humdinger of a superhero movie that doesn't let spectacular action overwhelm the characters or the story.

LIFECHANGER:
Michael Fabbri has turned his personal problems into comedy

Something funny about stumbling through life

THEY say that if you don't make mistakes, then you don't make anything, and for Michael Fabbri to make comedy this rings true.

The comedian, who will perform at Dunmow Comedy Club on Friday (May 6), admits that weakness makes for some of his best material. "I love weakness... I love my own weakness," he says.

But, in the notoriously unforgiving world of stand-up comedy, it's thankfully true that most of Fabbri's faults take place off stage. A lucky thing considering he supported Micky Flanagan on his "Out Out" tour that saw venues rapidly increase in size from town arts centres to the Hammersmith Apollo as Flanagan grew in fame.

General clumsiness features in his shows, but it's his living with dyslexia that comes into focus in his more recent material. His BBC Radio 4 Dyslexicon, airing in coming weeks, is one to listen out for.

In it, he talks about how he battles through life feeling trapped in the clutches of his condition. How can someone so eloquent suddenly fall so short when his condition comes to the fore?

It's an affliction which affects millions of people and, joking aside, it's telling that only at the age of 39 has it seeped into his sets. His work at a job centre for eight years before breaking into comedy was another subject that wasn't made funny in shows at the time.

"I never had a single joke about working in a job centre when I was working there," Michael said. "It was quite depressing, really. Not that it was a bad job, but it was only when I left that I started doing jokes about it. It's the same with dyslexia. At school, I'd get bullied for it but years later you can look at it differently.

"I talk about how spell check is a godsend, but at the same time, I'm so bad at spelling that the spell check just gives up. When it comes to dyslexia, I'm not short of things to talk about."

'Turning bullies' jibes into jokes to form a career is quite the turnaround. More general clumsiness also makes great material.

Michael said: "I talk a lot about my own flaws. I'm generally quite mistake prone. Just getting the wrong end of the stick quite often."

"I was at Jongleurs [the famous comedy club] in London for a gig. I turned up early and there's lots of rooms in Jongleurs and there was this big football match going on.

"I was in the dressing room and started changing channels on the TV and was watching The Vicar of Dibley. I didn't know that this TV controlled all the other TVs in the place.

"So there were these rugged football fans and I made them watch The Vicar of Dibley." He added: "So the show is largely me making errors and trying to turn them into comedy bits."

■ The Great Dunmow Comedy Club gig, starting at 7.30pm on Friday, May 6, will also see sets from Dave Thompson and Kevin McCarthy, with chilli nachos and real ale on sale. Tickets cost £11.50 and can be purchased online from www.wegotickets.com/event/341141.

Wonderful wares for sale close to home

LOVE farmers' markets, so was pleased as punch when a monthly craft & farmers market popped up in my home town. Wandering around the market with my little basket, I tasted cheese, chatted to the local sellers and was reminded of bygone days - when food was grown, sourced and reared locally, by local people.

This is how our grandparents brought groceries on a daily basis. But such produce seems to be a luxury to us nowadays. I know many would argue the produce at such markets can be overpriced compared to your local supermarket, but it's vitally important to recognise the difference between the two.

Much of our supermarket food is mass produced in factories, and crammed full with preservatives and (cheap) artificial ingredients to ensure a good profit.

So while it may not be practical to buy from a farmers' market on a daily basis, treating ourselves and our bodies to fresh, quality produce when we can, whilst also supporting the lifeblood of local family businesses, really is worth every penny, and it makes for a such lovely afternoon out!

Here are some of my highlights ...

Filippo's - the cheese teller stall is a must for all cheese lovers.

Together with his wife Mary, Filippo sources the most delicious, unusual cheeses from Italy and the UK, as well as cold meats and oils.

After tasting one or two cheeses ahem (OK, it was several), I discovered a delicious cheese that was infused with truffle. Mary said it was delicious grated over scrambled egg - and she was so right.

The spices from the The Spice Queen are simply delicious; she specialises in traditional quality spice mixes that are gluten free and vegetarian and I have given them as gifts to foodie friends on more than a few occasions.

Next, I came across some beautiful works by local artists from the Bishop's Stortford Art Society, which celebrated its 80th anniversary last year.

Then Ralphy (my doggie, for those that don't already know) discovered these wonderful wooden handcrafted pieces by this lovely gentleman, which including birdhouses, clocks and hand-carved doggie bowls (though Ralphy lost interest when he realised they were empty).

All the tasting and shopping left me worn out, so it was time for a coffee and toastie break at Toastielicious, then like a magpie I was drawn to the gorgeous handmade trinkets from Yidan, at Silver Cave Designs.

Yidan is a friend of mine from craft club - she's a wizard with a pair of knitting needles, but she also runs her own successful jewellery business.

She handcrafts the most beautiful pieces of jewellery. Ladies from our craft club Cottage Crafters, also sell their handmade goodies on Yidan's stall from time to time.

Should you venture to the farmers market one afternoon, I promise you won't be disappointed.

Aside from the all the above, you'll find so much more, including artisan home-baked goods, local honey and jams, fresh flower, craft stalls, fruit and veg. Just remember to take a big enough basket!

A Place in the Sun Live returns to Olympia London

The UK's favourite international property exhibition A Place in the Sun Live returns to Olympia London 6-8 May 2016 to meet the high demand for overseas property from a British public back in love with the idea of overseas home ownership.

The latest research conducted by A Place in the Sun surveyed 1,879 overseas house hunters about their plans and found that 65% of people had only started looking for a property abroad in the last 6 months with 62% aiming to buy within the next 12 months. With tough times for many over the last six years, few people have been in a position to consider buying their own place in the sun, but an improving UK economy coupled with a strong pound have come together to show buyers just what their money translates into when looking at overseas property.

Andy Bridge, Managing Director APITS Ltd, organisers of the event said:

"Owning a second property overseas allows the best of both worlds, you maintain a base close to family that really is home but grow to love a second place and community with better weather and free from the stresses of your daily life. If you can afford to jump between the two – for holidays when you're working full-time but for longer periods when you retire/semi-retire – then it's a great way to live and leaves you looking forward to going home or going on holiday."

It is still a buyer's market even though many of the best-value properties have gone, so it pays to do your research and what better place to start than A Place in the Sun Live, the UK's overseas property show launched off the back of the much-loved Channel 4 series of the same name back in 2005.

The three day exhibition comes to Olympia London 6-8 May with plenty of expertise, advice and inspiration on buying overseas property. There will be over 160 exhibitors showcasing homes for sale around the world, including the favourite destinations of Spain, France, Portugal, Italy, Florida, Greece and Turkey. Visitors can speak to experts who know these markets and can tell you everything you need to know about properties and prices in these locations. There will also be specialist overseas property lawyers and advisers who understand the intricacies of the purchase process, and free-to-attend seminars at The Hub and country pavilions.

Essential information for anyone serious about buying overseas and the number one tip from A Place in the Sun:

'Just as you would in the UK, make sure you get your own independent legal adviser on board before you buy your place in the sun' says Editor Liz Rowlinson, 'it sounds an obvious thing to say but you'd be surprised at the number of people who start the purchase process without being fully prepared.'

TV presenters Amanda Lamb, Jasmine Harman, Laura Hamilton and Ben Hillman will also be on hand to offer their top tips and to let you in on the secrets of filming schedules that have taken them all over the world – from beach front villas to country hideaways.

Eligible applicants will be offered an equity loan up to a maximum of 20% of the purchase price (based on the open market value). Applicants are required to fund at least 80% of the purchase price by means of a conventional mortgage, savings/deposit where required. The equity loan is provided by the HCA and held as a second charge. This offer is not available in conjunction with any other promotion. WORK WITH FISHPOOLS

CARPETS & FLOOR COVERINGS ESTIMATOR

We are seeking an experienced flooring professional to join our busy and successful Carpets and Flooring Department as an Estimator to support our team selling a wide range of quality carpets and other floor coverings.

The job involves visiting customer's homes and measuring rooms, etc to produce accurate floor plans and costed estimates/quotations. Conservatories

Turn your conservatory into an all year round living space

Our replacement roof solution is a traditional roof construction method for your conservatory which replaces the existing glass/acrylic roof with a bespoke insulated, timber framed, tiled roof.

This helps ensure a more comfortable room temperature in Summer whilst still enjoying the warmth a conservatory brings, and increases the temperature in Winter, enabling an enjoyable environment all year round. The new roof will also reduce glare and noise.

A Summit Conservatory Roof encourages your conservatory to become a popular area of the home, as an additional room and relaxing living space, saving you money on energy bills... and no more cleaning that glass or acrylic!

To find out more and/or request a free quote please contact us via

Alana's silver for England

ALANA MANSFIELD helped her England team to a silver medal in the International Six Nations Schools' Table Tennis Championships in Guernsey.

The Freshwaters Primary Academy student, a member of the renowned Old Harlow-based BATTs club, played against Scotland, Wales, Isle of Man, Jersey and Guernsey over the two-day competition.

In the first three matches of the round-robin format, against Guernsey, Isle of Man and Scotland, all were comprehensive 10-0 victories for England.

The Ireland team proved too strong though.

All three matches went to a fifth game, but England lost 8-2 in the final.

In their last match, England fought back with a 7-3 win over Wales to take silver.

Ireland won the tournament and Wales were third.

After the team championships followed an individual event where Alana was placed as the sixth seed.

She won the knock-out stage and continued winning all her games until she reached the quarter-finals.

In this match she lost to the unbeaten No.2 seed from Ireland. Alana said: "This was my first international championships; it was an amazing experience which I will always remember.

"Thank you to everyone that supported me, it was a wonderful opportunity."

Upper class!

EPPING Upper Clapton RFC capped a fantastic promotion-winning season with a comprehensive 39-10 win at Lowestoft & Yarmouth in London Division Three North East on Saturday.

It is the second successive promotion for the Thornwood Common-based team.

Try scorers were Laurie Dobbin (2), Luke Brewing (2), Archie Unstead and Rupert Wood. Nick Trower kicked three conversions and one penalty.

National joy for Georgie

BOXER Georgie Ellis secured his third successive National ABA title with victory in the finals day at Birtley, County Durham.

The former Harlow ABC fighter, who lives in Churchgate Street, won a split decision over Salisbury BC (Liverpool) rival Thomas McEvoy in the National Junior Cadet Championships at the 36kg weight.

The 15-year-old (pictured) had defeated Billy Saunders (Ferndown) in the semi-final the previous day.

Georgie's mother Lorna said: "This is his third consecutive National title and despite ring rust in not being able to spar for three weeks leading to the championships, he still managed to be victorious."

The Leventhorpe School

student boxes for the renowned Repton Boxing Club, based in Bethnal Green, East London.

All the South of England fighters fought their semi-final matches on one day and then the finals the next day, whereas their opponents from the North of England had a two-week break between the semi-finals and the finals.

Grove & Hove 0
COPPICE Row celebrated victory in their first cup final in the 15 years they have been playing in the Harlow & District Football League.

There were few chances as Coppice edged out opponents Grove & Hove.

The best early chance came when a shot from Coppice's Ibrahim Shode was superbly saved by Grove keeper Jon-Joe Ward.

A free-kick from Liam Clifton some 25 yards out hit a post.

The breakthrough came in the second half when a ball was played into the Grove box and Mark Tyrie stabbed home. Joe Linden was denied by Coppice keeper Jack Francis who pulled off a great save. With Grove pushing hard for an equaliser they left gaps at the back and both Levent Olgun and Liam Clifton had shots saved by Ward as Coppice secured the silverware.

CHAMPIONS: The Harlow-based Eastern Junior Alliance title-winners

Harlow team celebrate title win

HARLOW youth football team is celebrating winning their division in one of the toughest leagues in the Eastern region.

Bishop's Stortford U16s, who play at Paringdon Sports Centre off Southern Way, clinched the Eastern Junior Alliance (EJA) U16 London League.

Although the team are attached to the Bishop's Stortford Community Football Club, half of the team are represented by local Harlow boys and many live in the town.

They are the first Bishop's

Stortford Community Football Club team to win this league.

They have played against the likes of Barking, Buckhurst Hill, Cockfosters and Tower Hamlets, winning 11 and losing just two games in their 13-match Eastern Junior Alliance campaign.

Manager Troy Mead said: "I'm very proud of the entire team. Every match has been a battle playing against some of London's top teams."

"So the hard work and desire of all the players has paid dividend with this success and made this accomplishment very special."

They clinched the title with two matches to spare.

The team consists of: Harrison Tittle, Alex Brown (both goalkeepers), Kieran Mead, Harry Burton, Jeffrey Agyeman, Aron Fontenelle (all defenders), Bradley Russell, Tommy Wickenden, George Jefferies, Frankie Oatham, Michael Pardoe (all midfielders) and Aaron Reinke, Joseph Vieites-Stephenson, George Beldam (all forwards).

Cup exits for cricket teams

BOTH Harlow and Harlow Town exited the Dukes League Cup at the second round stage on Saturday.

The Marigolds men lost by three wickets against fellow Shepherd Neame Cricket League Division One side Shenfield.

Town, meanwhile, suffered a disappointing seven-wicket defeat to Division Three side Wickford.

However, they will be boosted by the arrival of their highly-rated Jamaican all-rounder Chris Powell, who flies in from the Caribbean tomorrow (Friday).

Rehman Ahmed's Harlow side posted a decent 226-4 in their 45 overs against Shenfield.

Openers Hafiz Yawar (79) and teenager Alan Jones (73) put on 140+ for the first wicket.

But in a gripping climax, Shenfield surpassed their target with one ball remaining.

They finished on 227-7 (Ryan Plom 74). Mustanser Meraj, Nicky Baxter and Luke Monger all took two wickets each.

Town posted 181-9 (Neil Gladwin 52), but Wickford clattered to victory (185-3/Dean Etchells 89) with more than 12 overs to spare.

Rams' cup win

HARLOW Rugby Club's second team produced a fantastic performance to lift the BL Division Three Plate final.

The Rams recorded a 27-5 victory over Millwall at Westcliff Rugby Club.

Jake Kent Pope scored the opening try on seven minutes.

Further tries from Dan Makepeace, Ali Phillips (2) and Ryan Clark secured the silverware.

Chay Clark slotted over one conversion.

Hawks wreck Pirates' hopes to make final

Play-off semi-final ends in triumph for basketball side

Essex County Basketball League Division Two play-off semi-final

Harlow Hawks 76
Thundersley Pirates 51

HARLOW Hawks' first season in the Essex League will see them contest the Division Two play-off final.

The Harlow Leisurezone-based team conquered Thundersley Pirates 76-51 at home in the play-off semi-final.

The game started slowly and there were few baskets in the first five minutes.

The first eight points came from Rimantas Norkelunas, Russ Allan and Shab Niaz.

The performance from both teams was much better in the next five minutes of the quarter.

However, back-to-back three-pointers from Pirates were a bit of a shock and spurred the Hawks to score seven points in the last minute of the first period.

A big three-pointer from Lee Morris, a basket from Alex Hinds and two converted free throws enabled the Hawks to lead 18-14 at the end of the second quarter.

This quarter was a moderate improvement as Morris continued his scoring run with five points in the first two minutes.

Extra effort on defence was much needed and Hawks stepped up and limited Pirates to 12 points for the whole quarter.

Although, Hawks themselves only scored 15 for the quarter, a three-pointer from Niaz and points from Hinds and Dan Cohen ensured Harlow kept their seven-point lead.

The quarter ended with Hawks

33-26 ahead.

Hawks seemed to be improving with each quarter and scored 20 points in the third period, again restricting the Pirates to a total of 12 points.

Two three-pointers from Niaz, plus some great play from Haddow and Hinds, with flurries of back-to-back baskets, kept the hosts in front.

Harlow led by 15 points and were 53-38 up as the quarter ended.

All Hawks had to do in the final quarter was to see out the game without letting Pirates claw their way back.

They managed to do so with a solid defensive performance in the final quarter.

"The defensive hard work was paid back with some nice basketball in the closing part of the game," said coach Saul Friedner.

Norkelunas (7) and Haddow (6) combined for 13 points in a dominant quarter and others got in on the scoring act with baskets from Tom White, Cohen and Stuart Burgess.

This final flourish helped Hawks reach 23 points for the quarter and win the semi-final 76-51.

Harlow meet Southend Scorpions II in the play-off final at Benfleet on Monday.

HARLOW HAWKS: Norkelunas 15pts, Haddow 11, Niaz 10, Hinds 8, Morris 8, Cohen 7, Allan 7, White 6, Whytock 2, Burgess 2, Friedner 0.

WED AND WHITES: Rouge Returns' Matt Hayter lifts the cup on Sunday

HDFL Senior Champions League final

Rouge Returns 2
Maiden 0

MATT HAYTER was handed the captaincy and went to lift the cup for Rouge Returns - because he will miss the Essex Premier Cup final this Sunday as he is getting married.

The defender only joined Rouge from Harlow & District Football League rivals Old Town at the start of this season because he wanted one last crack at winning the county cup.

Little did he know the final would be arranged for the same weekend as his wedding.

The final takes place at Concord Rangers FC on Canvey

Island at 10.30am, as the Paringdon Sports Club-based side look to clinch their third trophy of a stunning campaign.

Joint boss Peter Lucia said: "Dean McAteer is usually the captain but we made Matt the captain as he is missing the county cup final."

"We thought it would be a nice touch to have him as captain. He is getting married and missing the county cup final. He has been getting a bit of ribbing about it."

A brace from prolific striker James Thomas, who now has 44 goals, put paid to Maiden in Sunday's Senior Champions League final at Bishop's Stortford FC.

Maiden will be pleased to see the back of Rouge Returns.

"That's six times we have beaten them this season," said Lucia.

"They had a player called Danny Gillard, and he played really well."

There was controversy in the first half when the Maiden defence stopped for what they thought was offside, allowing Thomas to run through and slot the ball into the net.

Lewis Eaglestone had a header cleared off the line as Maiden pushed for an equaliser.

Just before the break, Scott Poole played a fantastic ball to Thomas, who slotted in his and Rouge Returns' second goal as the team clinched the third of a possible quintet of trophies in style.

'MARIGOLDS WILL BE MAGNIFICENT'

Diggers launch £1m project at Harlow Cricket Club

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertssexnews.co.uk

TWO of Harlow's main sports clubs have started their own major development projects as they enter critical phases which will make them the envy of clubs in Essex.

The multi-million pound move for Harlow Rugby Club to Latton Farm got under way earlier this spring.

At Marigolds in Chippingfield, home of Harlow Cricket Club and a venue where the sport was first played in 1774 during the reign of King George III, diggers moved in just over a fortnight ago at the start of a project which is costing nearly £1 million.

The bulk of the money is being spent on a state-of-the-art clubhouse, which is so modern that it offers facilities that are not even available at Lord's.

Heart

It is important because it puts the clubhouse right at the heart of the site and offers four large changing rooms catering well for female teams and the disabled as well as the five adult men's teams run at Harlow.

Work on the project, which is being half funded by a £500,000 grant from Sport England, is expected to be completed at the beginning of October.

In a busy year for sports clubs, the Rams are also making progress on their new site at Latton Farm off Second Avenue.

They planted their grass seeds for the six pitches that the complex will be home to.

Work on their clubhouse is set to start in the summer and could be completed in December.

The move has been well documented and stirred up a hornets' nest among residents, particularly as the old site in Elizabeth

Way will make way for a housing complex in about six weeks' time.

Meanwhile, at the cricket club, the neighbours are probably quite pleased that the project will ensure there's no housing constructed on one of the biggest green spaces in Old Harlow.

Workers are on site from Monday to Friday, laying the foundations for the huge structure.

The structure of the clubhouse will begin to dominate the complex in about six weeks' time. Harlow Cricket Club president Alan Howick explained: "It's a massive amount of money but it's unique. Marigolds will be magnificent. The facility will be much better for everyone. We had to do it as we couldn't survive with the limited facility we have got."

"Cricket is expensive and this will generate more revenue. We are excited and proud to have got this far."

"There's a great sense of relief

[that the work has now started]. "It's just a shame it won't be during the [2016] season, but we'll be ready for the 2017 season."

Double blow for Hawks

Ryman North

AFC Sudbury 0
Harlow Town 1

THE Hawks suffered a double setback in their plans for last night's play-off semi-final at The Harlow Arena.

Harlow Town midfielder Lewis Perkins came off with a quad injury at AFC Sudbury, which will keep him out for up to six weeks, meaning he misses the home tie against Cray Wanderers.

Winger Joe Benjamin also suffered a minor quad injury in the 1-0 win against the Ryman North champions.

On the plus side, winger Junior Dadson came through 70 minutes of this match having been out for the last fortnight.

Hawks boss Danny Chapman said: "It's sad for them [Perkins and Benjamin]. I felt for Lewis. His season is over."

"These things happen but we have a good squad of players that's more than capable."

The Hawks sealed the points when Piers Wixon struck in the 90th minute.

Wixon moved to midfield after Perkins suffered an injury in the warm-up.

Work rate

"Piers has done really well since he came in. His work rate was very good and he has a technical ability to keep hold of the ball," said Chapman.

Just when it looked like the match would peter out into a draw, a cross was half-cleared and Wixon's half volley beat the Sudbury keeper to sneak a win.

"I thought we created more than what they did and it was a deserved victory. We left a few out to give them a breather before the play-off game."

"We didn't want to risk any injuries and it gave the other boys the chance to put themselves in the frame."

Due to our print deadlines, a report from the play-off semi-final can be found on our website at www.harlowstar.co.uk/football

The Ryman North play-off final takes place on Sunday at 3pm.

This could take place at Thurrock, if they defeated AFC Hornchurch in their play-off semi-final last night.

However, if the Urchins win and Harlow are successful, it will take place at The Harlow Arena, due to Hawks' superior final league position.
